Energy & Natural Resources

Gornitzky & Co. is widely regarded as Israel's largest and most experienced law firm in the field of energy and natural resources. With considerable and unique expertise in this field, we are involved in a majority of the large scope energy and natural resource projects that transpire in Israel.

Our clientele includes Israeli and foreign energy corporations, major IPP's and international consortia, as well as chemical companies, desalination plants, oil companies, private investors and other energy players. We have also represented two of the country's largest private gas consumers in deliberations held by the Economic Committee of the Knesset on the draft bill of the Natural Gas Economy Law.

Over the years, our energy and natural resources team has acquired extensive experience and know-how in all areas of the energy market, such as natural gas, oil and gas explorations, refineries and fuel supply, private power stations, electricity purchase and power generation, solar energy, water desalination, BOT transactions, renewable energy projects and others. We represent our clients in their negotiations with Israel's gas transmission company, local utilities companies and the Natural Gas Authority. Our services include the representation of clients, both in Israel and abroad, in tenders for licenses for the construction and operation of projects in Israel, as well as in their other related ventures.

The firm's expertise in this area, in conjunction with its forerunning status in the infrastructure and project financing sector, enables Gornitzky's legal team to provide comprehensive and professional legal support for all projects in the energy sector.
