A new collective agreement for Superbus

News

Our firm represented the public transportation company, Superbus, of the Blilious Group, in complex negotiations which lasted for about a year, ahead of the signing of a collective agreement for the regulation of the terms and conditions of employment of approximately 2000 drivers and employees of the company.

Last weekend saw the signing of the collective agreement – an innovative and unique agreement in the public transport industry, which gives the company industrial peace for a period of three years.
