Making Impact

News

Last week, Our management staff participated in a team-building event focused on community service. The management staff team collaborated with the Jesse Cohen Association located in Holon, which works to reduce poverty and bridge social gaps in neighborhoods characterized by low socio-economic backgrounds. The association, which operates solely with the help of volunteers, distributes approximately 400 food baskets each week to families in need. Our management staff participated by sorting and packing food items, thereby making a significant contribution to the association's important work. Well done to all of the volunteers!
